EDMONTON, ALBERTA

23 SEPTEMBER 1976

TO LET THE PUBLIC KNOW

Recently there has been a growing awareness that it is the University's responsibility to itself and to the community to let the public know what is going on at the University. And, as everyone knows, one of the best ways to reach the public nowadays is through the media, especially the medium of television.

Although many people may not know that the University itself has a Department of Radio and Television, that Department is now undertaking a project designed to bring more of the University to the community. By producing a number of news clips, news features, and documentary specials, the Department will let the community know about interesting and informative things happening at the University such as research of various kinds, student and staff activities, and the involvement of the University and its people in the community as a whole. These television productions will be broadcast between September 1976 and April 1977 on CFRN, CBC, and CITV. The advantage of this project, which replaces the University's "In Touch With U" program, formerly seen on Sundays, is that it will reach a wider, prime-time audience through already established programs.

Three basic kinds of productions will be used. First, during prime-time news shows on CFRN and CITV, "Eyewitness News" and "ITV News," thirty news clips of about ninety seconds duration will be shown. These clips will cover such topics as the University's donation of rare specimen trees to the Muttart Conservatory or the development of a toy-lending library called "Toy Truck."

Second, fifteen news features of about four to seven minutes in length are also being produced for inclusion on CBC's "Newsday" program, the replacement for "Hourglass." These news features will be broadcast about every other week and will cover the same type of material as the news clips, but the coverage will be more extended, treating the subjects in greater depth.

Third, CFRN is beginning a local public affairs program called "Midweek," which will be aired on Wednesday evenings at 10:30 p.m. The Department of Radio and Television is producing four, one-half hour specials for this program. These documentary specials will deal with items of broader social interest and with things that more closely affect the public and that, at the same time, reflect on the University insofar as the University will have an effect on the issues. One example is a program on the state of health care delivery service in Alberta. The news special looks at such things as the changing roles of nursing and medicine in health care delivery and discusses the role and responsibility the University has, and will have, to provide and prepare people for new roles in the field. The first special, which will be aired in October, will be a documentary on the late Don Smith, well-known Professor of Physical Education.

The clips, features, and specials are being produced by Radio and Television on a cost-sharing basis with the television stations involved.

Suggestions for topics or ideas for future clips, features, or specials are most welcome. If you have any suggestions, please get in touch with the Department of Radio and Television and ask for Carol Ham at 432-4962.

SENATE MEETING

On Friday, 24 September, at 9:30 a.m. in the Club Room of the Jubilee Auditorium, the Senate of the University of Alberta will hold its first meeting of this academic year. A number of items will be discussed: the Honorary Degrees Committee will announce the Fall candidate, the Nominating Committee will report on Standing Committees, and the Task Force on the Status of Women will present its progress report. A report of the Committee on Dental Service to Rural Areas will also be presented.

An exchange of views in a small groups session between Senate members and H.E. Gunning, President, Myer Horowitz, Vice-President (Academic), E.A. Geddes, Chairman of the Board of Governors, Len Zoeteman, President of the Students' Union, and John Cherwonogrodzky, President of the Graduate Students' Association, will also take place. The small groups session is entitled "The University today—problems and challenges."

SEMINAR ON INDIAN CULTURE

The Faculty of Extension is sponsoring a three-day seminar on Indian culture from 8 to 10 October. The seminar will be conducted by a member of the Indian Association of Alberta and two Indian elders. The purpose of the seminar is to examine events and institutions that have shaped contemporary Indian life and to explore the spiritual aspects of Indian culture.

The first day of the seminar will be a historical review of Indian cultural institutions that have been misunderstood by other cultures—for example, the sundance and pipe ceremonies—and of Indian religious and moral concepts. The necessity of maintaining Indian culture will be emphasized. On the second day the elders will speak as trustees of Indian religion and philosophy. Participants will be able to address the elders through an interpreter, if necessary. With the understanding gained on the first and second days, the third day will examine the many programs and projects designed to deal with contemporary cultural conflicts between the Indian and others.

The fee for the seminar is $50 and it is limited to twenty participants. For further information and registration forms, call the Faculty of Extension at 432-3033.

REPORT ON THE STATUS OF SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS

A report on the status of Alberta school superintendents was released on 10 September by the Minister of Education, Julian Koziak; the President of the Conference of Alberta

School Superintendents (CASS, Alvin Myhre; and the President of the Alberta School Trustees Association (ASTA), Audrey Griffiths. The study was requested and endorsed by ASTA to "take stock of the role and position of the school superintendent (in Alberta) as it evolved during the 1971-1975 period of change," and the research was conducted by L.W. Downey Research Associates Limited.

The report describes real and ideal roles of school superintendents, identifies differences, and suggests possible changes. Among other topics, the recommendations relate to the selection, evaluation, and termination of employment of superintendents; delegation of powers to carry out the responsibilities of superintendency; procedures for evaluating teacher competence prior to recommendations for permanent certification; and provision for graduate-level study, executive development, and executive exchange programs.

A limited number of copies of the report are being distributed to interested persons. For further information contact Nick J. Chamchuk, Director of Communications, Alberta Education, telephone 427-2285.

The Stone Owl

A report on the reorganization of the Student Affairs departments will be presented and discussed at General Faculties Council on Monday, 27 September, and at the Board of Governors meeting on Friday, 1 October. Apart from a general shift from the old in loco parentis arrangement of student affairs in the years past to a provision of services for responsible young adults who happen to be students, the most important part of this report is the recommendation that an ombudsman for students be appointed, backed up by student advocates.

A trouble-shooter for students

Where does a student go, to whom does a student turn, when he or she encounters a problem, whether academic or administrative, with some part of this vast, complicated University?

If it is an academic problem, the Calendar may outline the recommended appeal procedures for the individual faculties (but not always—in a cursory search we found four that did not even mention grievances or appeals). In almost all cases, the Calendar strongly recommends that students approach the professor first and try to sort out their grievances for themselves. If sweet reason fails with the professor, students are urged to try to work the problem out with the department chairman and ultimately their dean, both rather intimidating at the best of times and, in the students' minds at least, both cut from the same fabric as the professor with whom they are having the dispute in the first place.

Beyond such semi-formal negotiations are grievance committees, in faculties where they exist, and ultimately the academic appeals committee of GFC. The Calendar urges students to exhaust all other avenues of appeal before resorting to this last committee—by that time the student probably will have exhausted himself, too. Worse still, he may have given up in frustration, his problem unresolved and most likely the intrinsic problem that led originally to his difficulties still extant to ensnare another student another day.

For administrative hassles and academic problems outside the very specific purview of the formal appeals committees, students may try, on their own, to work through the tangle of red tape and hope to find a flexible, reasonable human being in the office that is the centre of their troubles, or they may simply beat their heads against a wall.

The Students' Union Vice-President (Academic) is a good person to whom to resort with academic grievances; but he is only a part-time vice-president and only part of his time can be spent on grievances. His Students' Union position has only a one-year term, so he doesn't have a fair chance to learn his way through the University's administrative maze. What is more, he is a student, with no authority for settling grievances and no real acceptance in the academic community as a mediator.

Student Help, like the Students' Union Vice-President (Academic), may also be able to act as trouble-shooters; but, they too are students, working with no authority and on a voluntary basis. Both probably serve best as sympathetic and supportive friends. Beyond this they may not be able to do very much.

What many students have learned over the years was that the Provost, Al Ryan, was always there to lend a kindly ear, pick up the telephone at once, and set the wheels in motion towards an amicable settlement of all kinds of problems. For one man with many other responsibilities and thousands of students to watch over, he did a remarkable job. But with his retirement and the discontinuation of the position of Provost, which dates back to the early years of the University and which is now admittedly out of date, that particular kindly ear and those decades of canny knowledge of how the system works won't be there anymore.

Students' Union President Len Zoetman and Professor Ryan are both deeply concerned about the lack of anyone with authority to help students solve their problems, and their concern is shared not only by the students themselves but by a great many of the teaching staff at all levels.

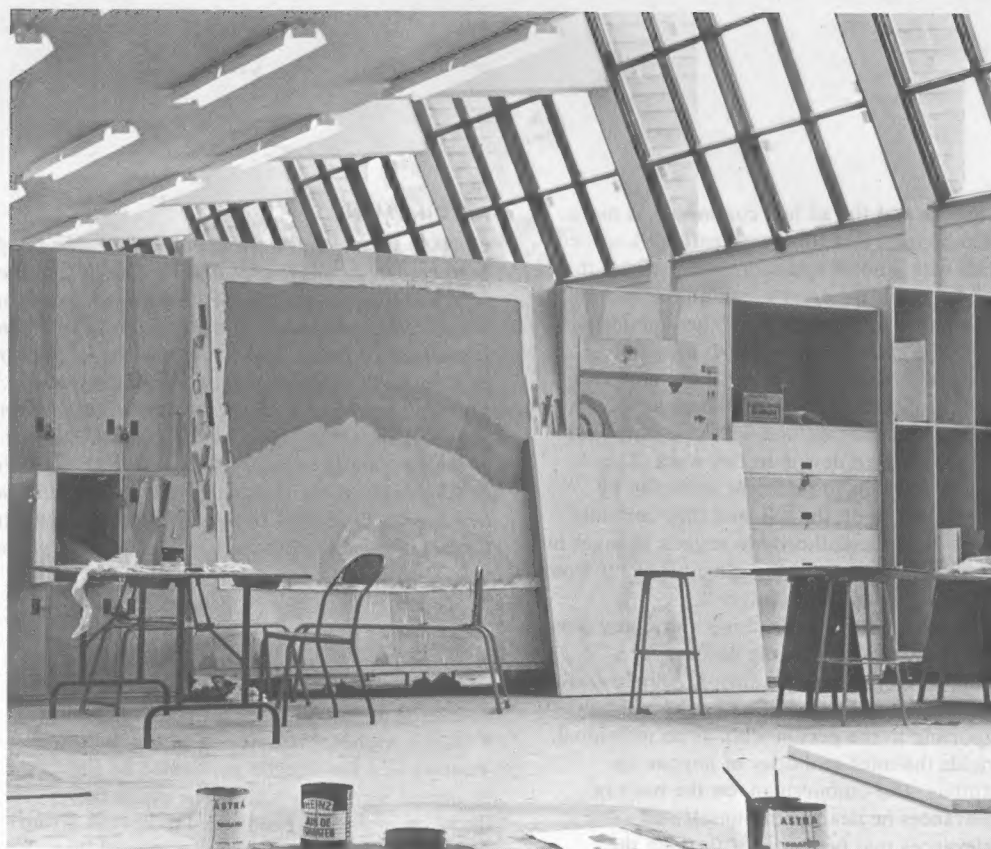

Patti Browne, Assistant Dean of Education and Chairperson of the GFC Committee to Investigate Teaching, states flatly that "we do have a need for an independent, objective, analyst/observer to whom students can turn and feel they can trust, who will have no vested interest in any department. This will also provide good back-up for the informal procedures that already exist, which are satisfactory so far as administrators are concerned but much less satisfactory for students."

Speaking for the Committee on Teaching, she says, "The Committee has been examining student appeals for the past two years, especially as they relate to problems in students' courses. We see the need for a complete review of this whole area and, in fact, were considering recommending an ombudsman or similar type of appointment."

For four years there was an ombudsman at the University who was able to deal with student grievances as well as staff complaints. However, he had no authority to act, only to advise, and had his hands full with staff problems (although in one year, in spite of his other responsibilities, he dealt with 150 student cases.) Because of legal conflicts between the ombudsman and official appeals procedures in the University, that position was dissolved last year, within four years of its creation.

Now, in the report it will be presenting next week, the ad hoc GFC Committee to Study the Reorganization of Student Affairs proposes that the position of ombudsman be resurrected for students. (He will not be dealing with staff cases at all.) This person will stand apart from the student affairs organization as such and will report directly to the University's President: this should give him or her the necessary independence and authority to act on behalf of students with grievances. Moreover, unlike the previous ombudsman, this individual (the report recommends that the person appointed be a reasonably well respected academic) will be backed up by two part-time student advocates, one a graduate student and one a senior undergraduate, who will seek out problems and will do a good deal of the peer counselling and trouble-shooting themselves.

Students' Union President Len Zoeteman,

Opening ceremonies for the H.G. Glyde Studio Building were part of the fine arts festival in Banff this summer. Named after a former Chairman of the Department of Fine Arts at this University, the Building houses an impressive number of studios including a humidity-controlled ceramics room, a studio for weaving, a large study for painting, and a photography studio. The Building is designed so that the students, ninety of whom are registered for the winter session, can work outdoors year-round since large, sheltered balconies on the west side provide ample classroom space. The Walter J. Phillips Gallery is housed on the first of the Building's three floors. Its curator, Barry Morrison, has introduced an innovative concept for the display of collections in the Gallery: works are featured on black walls and each painting is given individual emphasis by carefully mounted spotlights. Tony Blume, a Canmore artist, was the winner of a $10,000 competition for the design and execution of a mural for the foyer of the H.G. Glyde Studio Building. Work on the mural is now in progress.

a member of the ad hoc committee, is more than hopeful that this combination of academic staff with student assistants will perform the role of trouble-shooter much more efficiently than either one separately. "The ombudsman needs the student advocates to keep him in touch with changes in campus life and with grass roots problems. The student advocates are students themselves, and will have only part of their time to devote to this work. They simply won't have sufficient authority by themselves to do the job, and they certainly won't have the authority to suggest changes in the system to prevent the same problems from occurring again in the future."

Neither will the ombudsman have any direct authority to "overrule the decision of a Council, Committee, Professor, Administrator, or a Student." However, he or she will be reporting to the person who, as an individual, wields the most authority of anyone on campus. The ombudsman, on the basis of grievances he deals with himself and grievances that he learns of through the student advocates, is expected to work for changes in procedures and regulations that will prevent problems from recurring. As well as being a trouble-shooter, a sympathetic listener, and an impartial adviser, then, the ombudsman is expected to be a "thinker" (as the report puts it), an originator of change.

Whether there actually will be an ombudsman for students will be determined by General Faculties Council and the Board of Governors next week. But their decision notwithstanding, there is a crying need for a full-time trouble-shooter with the authority and humanity to help students whose University careers have been touched unkindly by "the system."

PEOPLE

- Samuel Rees, Associate Professor of English, presented a lecture on Robert Graves and David Jones, "An officer and a gentle man," in early September at the annual conference of Academi Gymreig at St. David's University College, Lampeter, Wales.
- A number of graduate students and staff of the Department of Comparative Literature, as well as other language and literature departments of the University, attended the VIII Congress of the International Comparative Literature Association held recently in Budapest, Hungary. Papers were presented by E.D. Blodgett, Professor and Chairman of Comparative Literature, M.V. Dimic, Professor, and G. Lang, a PhD candidate. M.V. Dimic, one of the official Canadian representatives, also gave two reports on the Association's

APPOINTMENT

Glen A. Mumey has been appointed Chairman of the Department of Finance and Management Science. Dr. Mumey, who holds a BSc in Commerce and an MA from the University of North Dakota and a Doctor of Business Administration degree from the University of Washington, has taught at the University of North Dakota, the University of Washington, the University of Idaho, and the University of Saskatchewan. In 1969-70 he was Visiting Professor at Krannert Graduate School, Purdue University. With this University since 1970, Professor Mumey's principal teaching areas are business finance, price theory, and basic statistics. His administrative experience includes serving as Chairman of the Graduate Studies Committee at the University of Saskatchewan during the development of the MBA program there and as Chairman of the Graduate Policy Committee at this University. Dr. Mumey has written two books: Theory of Financial Structure and Personal Economics Planning; a third book, Canadian Business Finance, is in press. (No photo available.)

editorial and financial transactions, and he was re-elected as treasurer for a three-year period.

- Violet Archer, Professor of Music, had Fanfare and Passacaglia performed by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Rafael Fruhbeck De Burgos. From 17 May to 3 June, the orchestra played in eight cities in England, Scotland, France, Switzerland, and Czechoslovakia. The Leo Green Singers of Edmonton, under the direction of Paul Bourret, performed Professor Archer's the Glory of God during an August tour of Europe. The work, which was performed in nine cities in Denmark, Germany, and Austria, was composed especially for the choir in the summer of 1974. Two songs by Professor Archer have recently been published by Waterloo Music Company: "April Weather" and "Someone."

BOOKS

- Contemporary Issues in Political Philosophy, edited by John King-Farlow, Professor of Philosophy, and William R. Shea of McGill University, has been published by Science History Publications of New York. The contributions include "What is a free society?" by Anthony M. Mardiros, Professor of Philosophy, and "An existentialist approach to politics" by Herman Tennessen, Professor of Philosophy.

NOTICES

CONFERENCE FUNDS COMMITTEE

The Conference Fund of the University is intended for the financial support of conferences, conventions, and symposia of an academic nature (as distinct from visiting lectureships) held in Alberta and sponsored or hosted by the University or its students or student organizations. The Fund is administered by a Conference Funds Committee of General Faculties Council and is the only fund in the University for this purpose. All applications for grants should be submitted to the Chairman of the Committee. Special application forms are available along with related information sheets. The Chairman is A.N. Kamal, Department of Physics, 407 Physics Building, telephone 432-3579.

FORUMS ON RELIGION

Faculty members have organized a series of monthly forums to discuss religious topics. The first forum will take place at 3 p.m. on Monday, 27 September, in 14-6 Henry Marshall Tory Building. The topic will be "Value commitment in the university community," which will be discussed by Tim Hartnagel, Sociology; Bill Hague, Educational Psychology; and Walter Thorson, Chemistry. The organization of future forums will also be discussed.

AUTHORITY ON RELIGION IN SOVIET UNION TO SPEAK

The Reverend Michael Bourdeaux, an internationally recognized expert on religion in the Soviet Union, will speak at the University on Tuesday, 28 September at 7:30 p.m., in TL-11 Henry Marshall Tory Building. His lecture, "Religion and human rights: the case of the Soviet Ukraine," is the initial venture of the Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies. The address is also sponsored by the Department of Religious Studies. Admission is free and all interested persons are invited to attend.

Reverend Bourdeaux is the founder and Director of the Centre for the Study of Religion and Communism at Keston College, Keston, England. Works which he has published include an introduction to religious life in the Soviet Union and a two-volume study of religious ferment in Russian that has established a new methodology for the study of Soviet religion.

CUSO INFORMATION SESSION

Canadian University Services Overseas is recruiting teachers for positions in Africa, Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean, and the South Pacific. A public information session will be held on Wednesday, 29 September, at 8 p.m. in 129 Education Centre South. A CUSO staff person will be in attendance to answer questions, and a film will be shown. For further information contact the CUSO Office, 2-5 University Hall, telephone 432-3381.

YOGA CLASSES

The University Yoga Fitness Centre is offering a basic Hatha Yoga course emphasizing fitness and relaxation. There will be an introductory lecture at 6:15 p.m. on 4 October in 14-9 Henry Marshall Tory Building.

VICTORIAN STUDIES CONFERENCE

The fifth annual Victorian Studies Association of Western Canada Conference will be held at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, on 8 and 9 October. The registration fee is $15 and registration should be made by 24 September. For further information write to the Conference Office, Extension Division, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon S7N 0W0.

T.S. ELIOT REVIEW

The T.S. Eliot Review, which was founded by Shyamal Bagchee at York University, will now be published at the University of Alberta. TSER appears twice annually and is well received by literary scholars. For further information about TSER contact Shyamal Bagchee, Department of English, telephone 432-2442.

PHYSICAL PLANT PURCHASES

The Department of Physical Plant has purchased a portable mercury vapor sniffer and a mercury vacuum cleaner. Both items are available for use by any faculty or department of the University. For further information telephone E.M. Doerksen, Safety Officer, at 432-5614.

FACULTY CURLING ASSOCIATION

The Faculty Curling Association will hold a meeting at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, 28 September, in the Saskatchewan A Room of the Faculty Club. At least one member of each curling team should attend the meeting, as well as others who have not been placed on a team. Draw preferences for playing times will be given to those teams which send a representative.

The first game of the season will be played on Thursday, 7 October. All games will be played in the Students' Union Building on Thursday nights at 5 p.m., 7 p.m., or 9 p.m. The rink fee is $136 and payment should accompany entry forms or be made the first night of curling. For information and entry forms telephone Bill Quick at 432-4215.

UNIVERSITY RUNNING TRACK AND RELATED EVENTS AREA

In conjunction with the Commonwealth Games Foundation, the University is renovating and upgrading the Running Track for use as a practice track during the Commonwealth Games in 1978 and for continuing use by the University. The track will be shortened to 400 meters, re-graded, re-surfaced, and re-curbed to meet Commonwealth Games standards.

In addition, a related events area is being constructed west of the West Pool to accommodate standing and running broad jumping, high jumping, javelin throwing, and so on. Renovation and construction work should be completed this fall.

CABLE TELEVISION CONNECTION

The University is now connected to QCTV's cable television system, which serves the west end of the city. An on-campus distribution system, installed by the Department of Radio and Television, carries the cable signal to the Education Centre North and South, the Audio-visual Centre in the Humanities Centre, the Small Group Laboratory in the Department of Sociology, the Department of Romance Languages, Pembina Hall, and St. Joseph's College. A separate distribution system will carry the QCTV signal to Lister Hall. Any department wanting a cable connection or more information about the cable system should contact J. Sleik, Department of Radio and Television, telephone 432-3302.

COMMITTEE VACANCIES

The General Faculties Council Nominating Committee is seeking nominations for the following vacancies in Selection and Review Committees:

Selection Committee for Chairman of the Department of Economics
Selection Committee for Chairman of the Department of Slavic Languages
Selection Committee for Chairman of the Department of Religious Studies
Selection Committee for Chairman of the Department of Physical Education and Recreation

Review Committee for Chairman of the Department of Psychology
Review Committee for Chairman of the Department of Computing Science
Review Committee for Chairman of the Department of Economics

Regulations governing the composition of these Selection and Review Committees require that one member, not a member of the department concerned, be elected by GFC.

Those who have suggestions for nominations or are interested in serving on any of the above committees are requested to contact the Secretary of the Nominating Committee, 1-15 University Hall, telephone 432-4715.

NON-CREDIT COURSES

CERTIFICATE AND CITATION PROGRAM CLASSES

Registration deadlines are approaching rapidly for University Faculty of Extension certificate and citation programs. Openings are still available in the following programs: classes in computer programming, employee benefits administration, local government, management development, personnel administration, public administration, and real estate. Programs begin the week of 27 September 1976. Supervisory citation classes begin the week of 18 October 1976.

Additional information about these programs may be obtained by calling the following numbers: management development, computer programming, employee benefits administration, and personnel administration certificate programs, 432-3027; supervisory citation, 432-5067; real estate certificate program, 432-5060; and public administration and local government certificate programs, 432-5052. Registrations are accepted in 228 Corbett Hall.

TEACHING ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE

A ten-week course, beginning 21 September, is designed for those who wish to teach or who are now teaching classes in English as a second language to adults but who have had no previous training in this area. It will begin with a video tape of a first class in English for a group of adults who had no knowledge of English, will continue with a foreign language lesson and outline the difficulties that English as a second language presents, and will include a study of the four aspects of second language learning: listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

The course will be taught by staff members of the University and the Alberta Vocational Centre. Teaching methods, the use of audio-visual materials and equipment, tests, and available texts will be reviewed. Course outlines and sample programs will be provided and time will be reserved at the end of each class for a discussion period.

Registration is limited to twenty students. The fee is $40. Additional information is available by calling 432-2497 or 432-3116.

PLAINS CREE

Two courses in Plains Cree will be offered this fall. They will be of interest to those who come in contact with native people, who are interested in the Cree language and culture, or who speak Cree and want to practise or improve their speaking ability.

Plains Cree I is an introductory course designed to acquaint beginners with basic spoken and written Cree and will include some aspects of Cree culture. It is a twenty-session course that will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays beginning 4 October, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The fee is $50.

Plains Cree II is a continuation of Plains Cree I with concentration on verbs and animate and inanimate objects. After this course students should be able to speak Cree at an elementary level. It is a twenty-session course and will begin 4 October. Classes will be held Mondays and Wednesdays.

Instructors for these courses, Sister Nancy Leclaire and J. Goodin, are native speakers of Cree. Further information regarding these programs is available by calling 432-3033.

USE OF TERMINALS

As an introduction to the computing system at the University using computer terminals, this course includes practice in procedures for "signing on" to the system, information storage, and manipulation.

The course will be offered 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., 1 October and 8 October; 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., 27 October and 29 October. There is no charge. Register in advance at 352 General Services Building.

AFFECTING PARENTING WITH THE LEARNING DISABLED CHILD

In a parental guidance course beginning 13 October, parents with a learning disabled child will be provided with helpful attitudes and strategies that can assist in overcoming the child's learning difficulties.

Ideas on how parents can diagnose their child's specific learning strengths and weaknesses will be discussed and the course will identify remedial methods and materials which parents can use. An underlying and

WE'RE LOOKING FOR VOLUNTEERS

Understanding volunteers. Volunteers who are open-minded, who are prepared to put their time to work in a different, but not so different, environment.

We're looking for volunteers for the Alberta Hospital, Edmonton. A 'mental hospital': one wholly concerned with work in the field of mental health.

We need volunteers to work in a variety of hospital programs, with a variety of people. As a volunteer, you could become part of an essential effort to help people who need a special kind of help. Experience is not necessary, as you will be given a full orientation.

Please call Ann Wyllie, volunteer co-ordinator at Alberta Hospital, Edmonton, for more information. Her number is 973-3361, ext. 257.

Transportation can be arranged to the hospital, which is just outside Edmonton's northeastern city limit.

major emphasis will be placed on the development of attitudes and environments that are supportive for the child. Following the presentation of resource material and ideas, parents attending will be asked to develop some remedial plans, to actually carry out a program with their child, and to share the experiences of their program with other course members.

The cost of the course is $20 and enrolment is limited to thirty participants. Registration is accepted from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays in 228 Corbett Hall. For detailed information on the course schedule, telephone 432-5069.

YOUR UPBRINGING: WHAT'S IT DOING TO YOU TODAY?

This course will offer individuals an opportunity to gain more understanding of themselves by looking at the family system in which they were raised. It will focus on some of the decisions, made when growing up, that affect personal and family life today.

The eight-session course will meet from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. beginning 18 October. Tariq Bhatti will be the instructor and will include in his program lectures, meditation, role playing, and group exercises to provide an opportunity for participants to understand and experience their own uniqueness and relationships to self and others.

The class is limited to twenty participants. The fee is $30. For additional information, telephone 432-5069.

VIOLENCE, SEX ROLES, AND DRUGS IN TODAY'S SOCIETY

A nine-week course, beginning 5 October from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., will address such problems as violence and aggression as inevitable factors in society, violence in the mass media, the control of aggression, the value of sex roles, the harm or benefit of sex-role training for the adult, the real and imagined problems associated with the non-medical use of legal drugs, and how useful our responses have been in reducing problems in these areas.

Registrations will be accepted in 228 Corbett Hall. The fee is $35. Additional information can be obtained by calling 432-5069.

Programmer Analyst

The University of Alberta Hospital will soon be replacing its on-line computer facility in the Department of Laboratory Medicine with a larger more advanced system. Although essentially a "turn key" operation as regards current instrumentation, the need exists for a programmer/analyst to assist with the implementation and to develop modifications and associated programs within the hospital's intergrated information system.

Familiarity with both FORTRAN IV and COBOL, plus an appreciation of mini-computer technology and willingness to work within a major intergrated system, is required for the newly created post. The incumbent will have to work closely with both laboratory and other computing staff; attendance at a short training course in the USA may be required, while substantial familiarization with University of Alberta Hospital practices will be a necessary initial task in the job.

This position offers excellent opportunity for career development in both on-line application and major intergrated system design.

Apply to: Employment Office, University of Alberta Hospital.
